What is Fibromyalgia?

Fibromyalgia is a rheumatic disorder characterized by chronic achy musculoskeletal pain that has no obvious physical cause. The pain is usually described as burning, throbbing, shooting, and stabbing and may be accompanied by chronic headaches, strange sensations in the skin, insomnia (and a myriad of sleep disorders), irritable bowel syndrome, and temporomandibular joint syndrome (TMJ). The person often complains of chronic fatigue and depression as well.

Other conditions such as premenstrual syndrome, painful periods, anxiety, palpitations, memory impairment, irritable bladder, skin sensitivities, dry eyes and mouth, dizziness, and impaired coordination may also be seen with the syndrome. Such activities such as lifting and climbing stairs are often difficult and painful. The most distinctive feature of Fibromyalgia, however, is the existence of certain tender points specific spots where the muscles are abnormally tender to the touch.

This disorder is much more common in females than in males, and most often begins in young adulthood. In most cases, symptoms come on gradually and slowly increase in intensity. They can be triggered or made worse by a number of different factors including overexertion, stress, and lack of exercise, anxiety, depression, lack of sleep, trauma, extremes of temperature and/or humidity. A significant number of people with fibromyalgia are actually disabled by the condition. Because malabsorption problems are common in people with this disorder, higher than normal doses of all supplemental nutrients are needed. Whenever possible, it is best to use sublingual vitamins and other supplements because they are more easily absorbed.

Although the exact cause of Fibromyalgia is not known, it is known that some of the neurochemicals, which help signal the nerves and the muscles in the correct way, are abnormal. More specifically, it is known that people with Fibromyalgia have low serum serotonin levels, low norepinephrine and low dopamine levels, and very high levels of substance P in the spinal cord. As a result, toxification occurs along with impairment of neurological function.

Okay, so what is FIBROMIA and what will it do for me?

FIBROMIA is a unique combination of botanical extracts from daisy flowers (B.E.E.*), grape leaves, and olive pits. The botanical extractions are bio-enhanced with patent-pending technology. Again, it is ALL-NATURAL AND NON-TOXIC!

*It is SAFE, FAST and EFFECTIVE RELIEF!

FIBROMIA works to help normalize neurological function through balancing amino acids that are the precursors of serotonin and those that affect the neurological system. This helps the person's sleep pattern improve and they awake rested in the morning. Further, once amino acids are normalized, there is less irritation to the nervous system. This, in turn, decreases muscle and nerve pain.

FIBROMIA also works by lowering the amount of cortisol within the brain back to its normal level. The brain cells, no longer hopped up with cortisol, are now functioning normally and are no longer inclined to signal to the muscles to contract, ending the discomfort and providing you with a new lease on life!

Persons with the condition sciatic (inflammation of the sciatic nerve which goes behind the buttock and down the leg) have noted relief of the pain after taking FIBROMIA.
